

This retreat is the 2nd in a series of 3 Day-Long Meditations on "Race in the Buddhist Sangha."

Part 2:

THE CULTIVATION OF RESPECT: Race in the Buddhist Sangha
Day-Long Meditation working with Subtle Energy

with Ralph Steele

Sunday, November 11, 2018, 9:00am - 4:45pm

At Copper Mountain Institute, 286 Ranchitos Rd, Corrales, NM 87048

Cost: By Donation

Ralph Steele has degrees in Religious Studies, Marriage and Family Therapy and Child Therapy. He has in-depth training and experience in Buddhist psychology, family systems, cultural psychology, cognitive behavioral therapy, and somatic experiencing. He practiced as an ordained monk for one year in the monasteries of Burma and Thailand and has received training from Tibetan meditation masters including Kalu Rinpoche and Lobsang Lhalungpa.

Ralph began teaching meditation retreats in 1987 and was instrumental in establishing people-of-color retreats at Spirit Rock Meditation Center and at the Insight Meditation Society. He founded the first Hospice Care Associates Degree program at Northern New Mexico Community College in the mid 1980's that is now a Master of Arts program at Southwestern College. He is a board member of Samden Ling, Portland, Oregon, a Tibetan Buddhist center of Adzom Rinpoche. He is the guiding teacher of Life Transition Meditation Center. He is the author of Tending the Fire.

If you did not attend the first Day-Long in this series, contact Ralph Steele to apply.

If you attended Ralph's first teaching in September, please register.

To register or to apply and for further information contact:

www.lifetransition.com ralphmsteele@gmail.com 505-982-4183

Or contact David P. Boaz at Copper Mountain Institute, Inc. info@coppermount.org 505-898-9592

Register and Donate at coppermount.org/retreat

An online registration form and location map are provided on that web page for your convenience.